Young Practitioners' Symposium

Thursday 13 February

Maison de la Mutualité, Paris, France

A symposium co-presented by the IBA Young Arbitration Practitioners (YAP) Subcommittee and the Young International Arbitration Group (YIAG) and supported by the Comité Français de l'Arbitrage 40

The IBA YAP and YIAG will be holding a half-day symposium on the afternoon of 13 February 2014. Following a keynote address, the symposium will follow an interactive format providing delegates an opportunity to share news and views on developments in the field of international arbitration under the direction of the symposium Co-Chairs.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

Young practitioners under the age of 40 (whether in-house or in private practice) and students who are interested in international arbitration.

Programme

17th Annual IBA International Arbitration Day

Advocates' duties in international arbitration. Has the time come for a set of norms?

Counsel in international arbitration have until now been subject to a diversity of rules and norms regarding their conduct. The possibly-applicable laws include those of the counsel's home jurisdiction, those at the arbitral seat and those at the place of the hearing. Does this diversity lead to unfairness? Will a set of common rules be the cure? Who would enforce any common rules? As the IBA has recently adopted its Guidelines on Party Representation in International Arbitration, the 17th Annual IBA International Arbitration Day will consider whether and how international standards of conduct can improve the fairness and efficiency of the arbitral procedure.

Introduction by Eduardo Zuleta.

0915 – 1045 Anything goes? Do counsel owe a duty of honesty in relation to their submissions, and (if so) when and to whom?

- Is there a duty of honesty in international arbitration? To whom is it owed?
- Is a counsel's duty not to make false or misleading submissions, assuming it exists, the same for fact submissions and for legal submissions?
- What can international norms realistically require or authorise counsel to do when confronted by false or misleading submissions (for or against their client)?
- How to address the tension between the counsel's ethical duties and the confidentiality of counsel-client communications?

1045 – 1115 Tea/coffee break

1115 – 1245 The gathering and taking of evidence: should we seek to level the playing field?

- Is it the role of the arbitral tribunal to ensure that all parties play by the same rules with respect to the gathering and production of evidence or testimony?
- When (if ever) does it become improper or unethical to contact, prepare and coach witnesses?
- Is there need for more (or any) transparency in the role of counsel in the preparation of witnesses and experts and of witness statements and expert reports?
- What are the duties of counsel in ensuring that a client addresses the process for the production of documents in a fair and honest manner? What can international norms realistically provide in this regard given the confidentiality of counsel-client communications?

1415 – 1545 Arbitrators without powers?

- Do arbitral tribunals have the inherent power to address counsel misconduct?
- Should they have such a power?
- Should a party suffer the consequences of its counsel's misconduct?
- Absent international norms that may be adopted, what remedies are available to arbitrators when faced with counsel misconduct?
- How can arbitrators determine misconduct without invading counsel-client communications?
- Should (or do) arbitrators have the power to exclude counsel from all or part of the proceedings? If the power is there, when should it be exercised?
- How can arbitrators do so without effectively inviting a challenge to the award?

1545 – 1615 Tea/coffee break

1615 – 1745 The IBA Guidelines on Party Representation: The right step or a step too far? A debate

- Is there too much soft law already?
- Are we over-regulating arbitration?
- Does the risk that parties will exploit the Guidelines to harass their opponents by multiplying disciplinary applications to arbitral tribunals outweigh any benefits from the Guidelines?
- Is there a risk of parallel disciplinary proceedings before arbitral tribunals and professional bodies?
- Will the Guidelines help or distract arbitrators from their main task, which is to decide fairly the dispute and render an enforceable award in an efficient manner?

International Bar Association

the global voice of the legal profession

The International Bar Association (IBA), established in 1947, is the world's leading organisation of international legal practitioners, bar associations and law societies. The IBA influences the development of international law reform and shapes the future of the legal profession throughout the world. It has a membership of more than 50,000 individual legal professionals and 205 bar associations and law societies spanning all continents and has considerable expertise in providing assistance to the global legal community.

Grouped into two divisions – the Legal Practice Division and the Public and Professional Interest Division – the IBA covers all practice areas and professional interests, providing members with access to leading experts and up-to-date information. Through the various committees of the divisions, the IBA enables an interchange of information and views among its members as to laws, practices and professional responsibilities relating to the practice of law around the globe. Additionally, the IBA's world-class conferences provide unrivalled professional development and network-building opportunities for international legal practitioners, senior business professionals, regulators and government officials.

Arbitration Committee

The Arbitration Committee focuses on laws, practice and procedures relating to the arbitration of transnational disputes. Through its publications and conferences, the committee seeks to share information about international arbitration and promote its use and improve its effectiveness. The committee has four subcommittees, namely Recognition and Enforcement of Arbitral Awards, Investment Treaty Arbitration, Conflicts of Interest, and Rules of Evidence. The committee also has established two task forces: the Task Force on Attorney Ethics in Arbitration; and the Task Force on Arbitration Agreements. The committee publishes a newsletter which is issued twice a year. The newsletter is packed with articles from practitioners worldwide. The committee's publications include the IBA Guidelines on Conflicts of Interest in International Arbitration and the IBA Rules on the Taking of Evidence in International Commercial Arbitration. Committee members also receive the IBA's Dispute Resolution International journal which is issued twice a year.

The committee has more than 2,300 members from over 90 countries.

Young Arbitration Practitioners ('YAP') Subcommittee

Following the success of recent symposia hosted by the Arbitration Committee aimed at young practitioners coinciding with the annual IBA conference in Dublin and the Arbitration Day Conferences in Stockholm and Bogota, this initiative reflects the Arbitration Committee's aim of engaging more actively with the younger members of the arbitration community. It is inspired by the success enjoyed by the IBA's Young Lawyers Committee established in 2004 which has enabled young lawyers to join the association and become active and engaged in its various committees, groups and initiatives.

The YAP Subcommittee will leverage the wide reach of the Arbitration Committee's membership to provide a platform for the younger members of the global arbitration community to meet, exchange ideas and learn from peers and more experienced practitioners. The YAP Subcommittee will become one of the permanent subcommittees of the Arbitration Committee. In addition to organising symposia to coincide with the annual IBA and Arbitration Day conferences, the YAP subcommittee will enjoy a broad mandate to organise other standalone events and training seminars, establish task forces dealing with issues of specific interest to young practitioners, and to educate practitioners on the use of the IBA's rules and guidelines.

European Regional Forum overview

The European Regional Forum has been developing and strengthening the existence of the IBA within the whole of Europe by promoting the goals of the IBA to members, non-members and others, disseminating professional know-how, and assisting the committees and other constituencies of the IBA to increase their presence in the different sub-regions of Europe, including parts of North Africa and the Middle East. The goals of the forum include addressing current and long-term needs of professional organisations and individual members within the geographical reach of the Forum, as well as increasing membership and participation in the IBA and integrating them within the organisation. The Forum will also facilitate cross-border activity between lawyers and bars in different European countries. The Forum has a particular focus on cross-disciplinary activities. The forum seeks to facilitate relevant networking and information/experience sharing opportunities and encompasses the social and collegial interests of both members and potential members with other regional fora, the Corporate Counsel Forum and the Young Lawyers Committee and all LPD committees in general. At present the forum has 7,700 members and its numbers continue to increase as it becomes one of the most integrated and dynamic fora of the IBA.
